

WINNER'S 2010 AWA DESIGN AWARDS – Best Use of Windows & Doors – New Construction

Following from AWA Design Award success in 2007, 2008 & 2009, SCAR TOP JOINERY has again been recognised for

Best Use of Windows and Doors – New Construction

Design and project built by Richard Cole Architecture. The contemporary dwelling features precisely detailed and constructed structure and joinery.

Feature Product – Double Hung Window - New Product Innovation.

New commercially available Double Hung Window hardware technology has enabled SCAR TOP to be able to offer the market a product featuring removable sashes for painting, cleaning and maintenance.

Whilst the overall function and appearance of the double hung window has not been altered, the new hardware technology provides the benefit of sash removal and the inclusion of seals.

The seals provide an anti rattle function but additionally improve the overall performance characteristics of the window. Whilst the seals prevent air and moisture access when the window is closed, they also minimise the impact of internal heat loss in winter.

The environmental effect of being able to control air circulation through sash positioning during warmer months is now enhanced by new sealing characteristics to minimise heat loss in cooler months.

FEATURE PRODUCT – Pivot Doors

With the growing demand for striking entrances, pivot doors can provide a contemporary architectural appearance with both increased height and width. The use of pivot hardware replaces the conventional hinged option and gives the opportunity to provide a more generously proportioned entry door. With self closing and hold open functions, pivot doors offer additional features of push out and/or pull in option for easy access.
